

Li Jun ZHAO: Implementation of Uniform Sea Transportation

This research looks at the cooperation between the WTO and the UN in enhancing the uniformity of seaborne cargo rules. Numerous scholars have devoted themselves to analysing the UN's involvement in unifying seaborne cargo rules, but there has been little literature evaluating other international organisations. This research argues that the WTO also has advantages over promoting the uniformity of this area of law.